This includes, but is not limited to, securing an office and advance poll and polling day locations; working with external suppliers; hiring key staff and poll workers; interacting with candidates and electors; managing and auditing budget and financial transactions, including payroll before submission for payment; and tabulating the candidate results.

The Chief Electoral Officer is seeking results-oriented and motivated leaders to manage all aspects of the preparation, execution, close-out and reporting of electoral events and referenda, including the implementation and delivery of innovative recruitment strategies, administrative, financial accountability and issues management policies, in accordance with the requirements of the Election Act and other relevant legislation, policies, processes and guidelines.
